

President Announces Orders to Expedition Will Not be Changed

Respectful Consideration Will be Given To Carranza Note--Counsul Will Discuss Situation with Carranza

HUNT FOR VILLA WILL BE CONTINUED

Washington, April 14. (By United Press.)—There will be no immediate change of orders to the American punitive expedition in Mexico. The hunt for Villa will continue for the present at least. That was the decision reached by the President's cabinet in session today.

Respectful attention will be paid to the Carranza note. Every consideration will be given it. Meantime consul Rodgers in Mexico City will treat with Carranza toward reaching an amicable settlement of the suggestion but no reply will be made now by this government, and pending the receipt of word from Rodgers at least, it was indicated the United States troops will continue their efforts to kill or capture the bandit leader and exterminate his band.

The decision of the cabinet caused some surprise as it came right on the heels of a statement by Senator Stone, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, that intervention or withdrawal were the only courses open to this country in Mexico—and that in his belief—withdrawal was the better of the two. He made that statement following a call on Secretary Lansing at the state department.

After the meeting it was announced that President Wilson was preparing a statement on Mexico. Congress met today with a dozen sizzling resolutions on the Mexican situation drafted, but they hesitated as to whether this is the proper time to present them. All demanded prompt action. The department made efforts to curb congressional action or debate.

Senator Smith, Arizona Democrat, also called at the state department. When he left he indicated that he is not at all in sympathy with the proposal to withdraw American troops from Mexico. He would support no program of withdrawal until Villa is captured and the safety of the southern border secured. If the President should decide to withdraw from Mexico, leaders said there is not the slightest doubt that he will meet with opposition in which the Democrats will join with the Republicans.

The cabinet decision to gather all facts before attempting final action was unanimous. No light on the stand taken by the President himself at the conference was obtainable. Orders issued last night to General Funston giving him free rein in protecting Pershing's men and in meeting the general situation arising from the Carranza fight will stand.

Bill Introduced Not to Withdraw
Representative McLemore of Texas today introduced a resolution in the house providing that the American forces now in Mexico must not be withdrawn until Villa has been killed, captured or forced into exile. His resolution provides that the President be directed if it is deemed necessary to send reinforcements to Mexico, to issue a call for volunteers or to accept any regiments of militia which may offer their services to be used in pursuing Villa regardless of protest from any person or powers. In the preamble McLemore says that Carranza has put obstacles in the way of the United States army and has thereby impeded the capture of Villa.

Columbus, New Mexico, April 14.—(By United Press.)—The Carranza withdrawal request has halted the forward drive of the American expedition in Mexico according to information here today. The smaller column and detachment on Villa's trail are concentrating as rapidly as possible. Until definite action is taken on Carranza's request the lines of communication or supply will not be extended further, it was learned here.

In Critical Condition
El Paso, April 14.—United States troops around Parral are facing a critical situation according to reports received here today. A Villista band defeated by American troops at Troy last Monday retreated toward Parral. An official report stated, leaving United States cavalry in pursuit, but the sentiment against them was found to be at a high pitch in Parral.

Following the clash between the Mexicans and the American detachment on Wednesday, other bandit forces defeated the Carranza garrison at Tular De Cochinos driving them back on Parral. If the Carranza garrison in Parral joins the Villistas against the American forces the situation would become critical it was admitted here.

Deny Troopers Attacked
The Mexican account posted at Juarez today said the citizens of Parral attacked the United States troops who entered the city by mistake.

"It was the citizens not the soldiers who opposed the entry of the American troops into Parral and who fired on the United States soldiers," Garcia declared. Other reports, however, stated that the officers of the Parral garrison could not control their men and that the soldiers took part in the fight.

The fact that the mayor of Parral is Jose de la Luz Herrera is considered significant. He is the father of General Louis Herrera who, despite his cordial meeting with General Pershing at the front a few days ago, is still regarded as the leader of anti-American elements of the Carranza garrison.

Villa Spy Arrested
A Villa spy riding a United States cavalry horse and wearing a United States army uniform was arrested near American field headquarters close to Maniquipa, according to advices received here today.

Zapata Executes Leader.
Galveston, Texas, April 14. (By United Press.)—General Zapata has executed Manuel Palafox, formerly one of his chief lieutenants, and ten other former Zapata leaders, according to reports said to be official received here today by Mexican Consul General Francisco Pacheco charged that a plot to murder General Gonzales at the recent conference arranged under an amnesty agreement was entered into. Failure of the plot was regarded to be the reason for the execution.

Washington, April 14.—(By United Press.)—Estimates of the number of Mexicans killed at Parral ranged from a few to one hundred. Consular reports to the state department declared today. The best information obtainable was that only one American was killed. The consular reports came yesterday from El Paso and were based on statements of travellers.

These travellers related that the Americans had clashed with the Mexican inhabitants and then withdrew outside the city. They stated that the battle was not renewed at night as the Carranza Embassy advices yesterday afternoon stated.

General Funston notified the department this afternoon he had no report from General Pershing regarding the Carranza battle. It was Secretary Baker's understanding that there would be no objection to the passage of troops through towns on the line of march if they had not been ordered to "occupy" any town.

The statement was made on receipt of word from Mexico City that reports there were that the Americans were fired on when they attempted to march through the city against the articles of agreement between this government and Carranza.

Report of Battle Reaches Border
Mexico City, April 14.—Mild excitement was caused today by publication for the first time of news of the clash between American troops and Mexican civilians at Parral. There were no demonstrations, however. News of the battle spread through the city last night after General Gonzalez had issued a manifesto warning the inhabitants against any hostile demonstration against the Americans.

SHARP NOTE WILL BE SENT GERMANY WITHIN 24 HOURS

Jeopardizing American Life Will Mean Severance of Dip lomatic Relations

Note Will Call for Punishment of Offending Submarine Commanders and Remove Possibility of Repetition of Such Acts.

Washington, April 14.—(By United Press.)—President Wilson's final word on the submarine controversy with Germany has been embodied in the note to Germany states that another disaster resulting from a U-boat attack in which an American life is jeopardized will mean the severance of diplomatic relations. No hint of the exact contents came from the White House. It was stated that this note will go forward within 24 to 48 hours.

The communication is sharp and concise and will permit no dickering and extended negotiations. It is reported that it will call for not only punishment of the offending submarine commanders but for assurance that Germany has changed her policy in such a manner as to remove all possibility of a repetition of the circumstances which have brought the two countries near a diplomatic break.

Definite Plan Decided Upon

Washington, April 14.—(By United Press.)—President Wilson has determined on the course of action to be taken by the government toward Germany in the submarine issue. Announcement will be made in about from 12 to 14 hours. This was the statement of a high government official just before the cabinet went into session today. He would not comment on what form this government's action would take at this time.

It is certain the President will demand an immediate showdown without equivocation on the submarine issue. He is expected to determine the United States shall have satisfaction even at the cost of severance of diplomatic relations. It was stated that the government has all the facts necessary to set forth its position and that there will be no further delay.

American Survivor Returns

New York, April 14.—(By United Press.)—Edwin H. Huxley, the first American survivor of the Sussex, reached New York, was a passenger of the St. Paul reaching here today. Huxley, a rubber merchant with offices at 890 Broadway, said the German statement that another ship, the Sussex, was torpedoed at about the same time and in the same way seemed ridiculous to him. "We were afloat for nine hours and saw no other vessel during that time," said Huxley. "It seems certain that had another steamer been torpedoed near by we would have heard from her by wireless." Huxley saw no submarine or torpedo.

OFFICIALS FAIL TO FIND TRACE OF MISSING BOY

William Betts Supposed to Have Gone to Philadelphia to Attend Stamp Auction

Mileage Book Used By Youth Traced To Philadelphia Station—New York Will Be Searched in Attempt To Locate Him.

No trace of William Betts, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Betts, of Old Town Road, who left home Tuesday, has been found yet by officials of Philadelphia and New York, who are hunting for the boy. It is thought he went to Philadelphia but all efforts on the part of officials there have failed. Mr. Betts and Mr. Hartwick left last evening for Philadelphia and have made a thorough search of the city in an effort to locate the boy or find some trace of him.

It has been learned the boy left without taking any clothing and had but eight or nine dollars besides a mileage book containing passage for a little over 250 miles. He carried a bag containing a collection of stamps valued at about twelve dollars. William is a very enthusiastic stamp collector and it is thought he has gone to Philadelphia or New York to attend a stamp auction for the purpose of exchanging more stamps.

Officials of the railroad informed local authorities that they have traced the mileage book, which the boy took, to the Philadelphia station. There are some suspicions that the missing youth has met with foul play, or has sold the book to avoid being traced by the officials. An effort is being made to locate the conductor of the train between Tyrone and Philadelphia, which the boy is supposed to have taken. It is thought that when the conductor is located, he will be able to inform the searching parties whether or not William was on the train, because the boy stammers badly and travelling alone would be sure to attract attention.

At three thirty this afternoon, Betts, father of the boy, phoned relatives here that no trace had been found but that he will go to New York this afternoon and make a search there. Mr. Betts has never interviewed the conductor and is that reason does not know who is the mileage book through to Broad street station from Tyrone.

IN MEMORY OF TITANIC VICTIMS.

New York, April 14.—Extraordinary services were held in New York today in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Isidor Straus and others who perished in the disaster four years ago. The White Star liner, Titanic, the largest ship afloat, was sunk by a collision with an iceberg, late on the night of April 14, 1912, when about 800 miles from shore off the great Newfoundland Banks. The disaster occurred on the maiden voyage of the ship from Southampton to New York. Some 1,500 persons were drowned, and 703 saved by life boats.

LOCAL BASEBALL MEN WILL HOLD MEETING TONIGHT

Prospects for Professional Team Here This Season Will Be Discussed

Meeting is Held for Purpose of Laying Plans for a Permanent Organization to Promote Sport.

There will be a meeting of the local baseball enthusiasts this evening in the Y. M. C. A. for the purpose of discussing the baseball prospects for Clearfield this summer. Several young business men interested in the sport have called the meeting and request that all baseball men of the town who want a professional team to represent Clearfield be present.

This is the first step toward the organization of a team for this town and it is expected a large number of fans will be present. During the past two years the residents here have not displayed much interest in baseball. An effort will be made to secure several out-of-town players to add to the list of local boys who are star performers on the diamond in an endeavor to have an extra fast team as representative of Clearfield, so as to receive the support of a larger number of people.

At the meeting this evening the prospects for a team will be discussed and plans laid for a permanent organization to promote the sport. The raising of funds for the maintenance of a professional team here is the hardest problem which will have to be solved. The last two seasons proved very costly to several of the supporters of the teams but it is hoped that more interest will be taken in the sport this year so as to leave a surplus deficit to be made up by contributions.

All interested in a professional team are urged to be present this evening.

"DRESS UP."

As an expression of National Prosperity: "Dress Up!"

This is the week for it. The stores for men and women have been at great pains to put their stores in order for the Easter season.

Every shop is filled to the doors with the things you will need for the Easter "Dress Up," and it is not necessary to remind you that the best time to buy is early.

In practically every community in the United States this idea of celebrating the National prosperity is being carried out during this month. Millions are being spent for new raiment, all of which goes into the mill-stream of dollars to increase the good times we all are enjoying.

There is also the lure of the season itself. Always Easter time has been the signal for new things to wear, and the Easter parade in Clearfield is not less important than the famous Fifth Avenue out-turning which holds the great metropolis in its spell.

Dress Up this week in new things.

WHERE THE GOVERNOR LOSES.

The spectacle of a decent man being worsted in politics by a gang of professionals is a pathetic one. The thing arouses the same indignation in honest men as would the sight of an untrained man being unmercifully beaten by a professional prize fighter. In that comparison lies the odds against which the governor is waging war against Penrose and his organization. Brumbaugh is a scholarly man, a deep thinker, and at heart no doubt as honest as a vast majority of Pennsylvanians believe him to be. But he is an amateur at the game of politics, hopelessly outclassed and outpointed at every turn when he threatens the safety of the Penrose machine, which has made a profession of politics.

It is unfortunate in the extreme that the governor, seeking to effect a Republican solidarity in the state, by wrecking Penrose, has put into motion against himself the resourcefulness of the machine which he seeks to weaken or destroy. He is bucking a game which is as coldly scientific as the measurement of the stars. Scruples have never stood in the way of the professional politician. Defensive or offensive, to him the end always justifies the means, and it is doubtful if our chief executive will emerge from the present struggle without further smirching.

STUNG BY TWO MEXICAN ADDERS.

Mr. Wilson continues to be the victim of his own credulity. It is not so many months ago that the Villa junta at Washington was cheek by jowl with the administration, the official intercourse between the bandit and the United States government lacking only the formal trappings of ambassadorial dignity. Villa was looked upon in official circles as the man who finally would emerge on top of the heap, and every aid was given him in the acquisition of arms and ammunition to make war upon "First Chief" Carranza. The President gave his approval to the semi-official procedure, and General Pershing, now on Villa's trail, and General Scott, chief of staff of the army, are among those who met Villa and treated with him as the military chief of Northern Mexico.

During this period of Villa ascendancy the Carranza agent in Washington was overshadowed, but with such suddenness as to surprise even the closest followers of the Mexican muddle, the scenes were shifted and the stage set for recognition of the de facto Carranza government. That accomplished the border was closed to Villa, and everything possible was done to prevent further shipments of arms from reaching him.

Now Villa is a fugitive, hotly pursued by American troops in Mexican territory. Carranza objects to the procedure, although he gave tacit consent to the expedition by exacting from this government the privilege of invasion of its borders in similar pursuits, and demands the withdrawal of the American expedition.

The sentiment of this country will not countenance the abandonment of the Villa chase until the Columbus assassin is killed or captured. If it leads to war with Mexico, which everyone will deplore, let it lead there before adding another to the long list of humiliations the American people have suffered because Mr. Wilson believes peace at any price is a better vote getter than war.

Fashion Hints By Margaret Mason

BY MARGARET MASON
(Written for the United Press)
"Alack, alack!"
"I see you're back."
The wretched husband cried:
"Again I will be on the rack."
"I will take profanity and knock
"To fasten up my bride."

New York, April 14.—On the flower that bloom in the spring time and the dresses that look up the neck are making a simultaneous debut.

Steadily and indistinctly looks and snaps and buttons are sneaking to the rear and in consequence the fingers of all poor Benedicts are due to turn to thumbs for the summer months and bear the brunt of many a pinch and scratch from an obstreperous hook or an obstinate button.

Although all their work is done behind your back there is nothing reticent or retiring about the buttons used to hold your apparel together in the rear. In fact quite a feature is made of a necessity, and the buttons, though generally small, are of ornate shapes, designs and colorings. Quaint enameled in bring hand plaids or wee little nosegays of flowers, sapphire and hexagon and oval shapes and other smart ones covered in the material of which the dress is made or in which it is trimmed.

Crochet buttons also are popular. Even if all the brass buttons have gone to the front it appears there are still divers and sundry other sorts to go to the rear.

With the full skirts and tight bodices and bell sleeves of the moment the back fastening really fits into the general scheme of things most effectively, and, while in some instances frocks may make a feature of buttoning straight down the front, you will find the very newest and smartest wrinkle is to do your buttoning up behind—or let George do it.

You must look to your feet this summer as assiduously as you have in the winter, for others surely will look there and, looking once it is up to you whether they will care to look again.

The short full skirt, hinting of hoops and crinolines, are first aids to a generous display of silken hose and shoes of kid and a smartness.

All black stockings will be glimpsed but rarely but black with white will be on many a well turned limb and will occasion many a well turned head.

Black and white stripes running around for those as can wear 'em and running up and down for those as can't are very much in the running and range from pin-stripes to inch wide bands.

White hose embroidered in black up the instep or the sides of the ankle are good and all delicate tints of flesh, grey, maize and baby blue will be popular.

The white kid shoe, both high and low, is in its heyday and low plain pumps and slippers of softest pear grey kid, beige and all delicate pastel tints to go with the fluffy summer silks and organdies are to be featured on all the best feet.

Black patent kid and black satin slippers will be greatly in demand also, with light colored hosiery because of the pronounced Spanish flavor of our present dressing.

Take nine inches off a skirt and then add two cuts (not cube) feet and the answer to this sartorial sum is SOME girl.

COMMISSIONER WISSER AIDED SAYS DAUGHTER

Dravosburg Official Relieved of Distressing Cataract Afflictions

Mrs. Wm. Kerfoot recently made the following statement regarding the benefits her father, Henry W. Kerfoot, commissioner of Dravosburg, Pa., received from Tanlac the master medicine.

"Yes," said Mrs. Kerfoot, "I came to give this statement about my father's experience with Tanlac. He was troubled terribly with cataract of the head and stomach and he suffered for it for years. He always complained in the morning of a heaviness of his head and said he didn't feel like he had enough energy to commence his day's work. He seldom ever ate breakfast, as he suffered from a sickening sensation which he attributed to the accumulations of catarrhal matter in his throat.

"He also complained of headaches, and coughed continually throughout some of the forenoons. His sleep became impaired and he had been forced to get out of bed in order to breathe comfortably. These choking sensations troubled him some during the day time, too.

"I read about Tanlac, and I just determined he should try it at my expense. I bought the medicine and asked him to take it. At first, he was a bit skeptical as he had failed to obtain relief through other medicine he had taken. I persuaded him to try Tanlac, though, and he is now very glad that he took my advice.

"The accumulations in his throat have disappeared, his appetite for breakfast has improved, and he is generally so much better. He said the other day that he is feeling like a new man, and I am so glad that the medicine has helped him. I believe that in a very short time, if he continues to take Tanlac his cataract will be permanently cured. I gladly recommend this wonderful remedy on his behalf."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, that helped Commissioner Wissar and thousands of others, is sold here by Woodward & McPherson where it can now be had.

WEDNESDAY PRIMARY WILL CLOSE HOT POLITICAL FIGHT

Lively Interest Being Taken In
Nominations for State
Ticket in Iowa

Cummins, Estabrook and Ford Only
Candidates for Republican Delegates — Presidential Primary
Creates Little Interest.

Lincoln, Neb., April 13.—The state wide primaries in Nebraska next Tuesday will culminate one of the fiercest political battles in the history of this State. On that day the voters of the several parties will express their choice for President and Vice President, choose delegates at large and district delegates to the national conventions and vote for candidates for United States senator, six representatives in Congress, members of the judiciary and a complete State ticket, from governor down to regent of the State university.

The presidential preference feature of the primaries has aroused little enthusiasm among the Nebraska voters. But what is lacking in interest in this feature is more than made up in the lively fight for nominations on the State ticket. The liveliest fight is in the Democratic ranks and centers around the issue of prohibition, with William J. Bryan as the dominant leader of the "dry" element.

A short time ago there were the names of nearly a dozen presidential possibilities on file with the Nebraska authorities. But Roosevelt, Burton, Hughes and others withdrew, leaving only Cummins, Estabrook and Ford on the Republican ticket, Woodrow Wilson on the Democratic ticket, Eugene N. Foss and Ira Landrith on the Prohibition ticket, and Robert G. Ross, of Lexington, Neb., on all lists.

Democratically speaking, there is none but Wilson. Nebraska Democrats are for him and the Democratic delegation to St. Louis will vote for his renomination. Cummins is expected to have the Republican delegation. He is the candidate of a neighboring State and is well known and well liked in Nebraska. Furthermore, he is the only one of the Republican aspirants who has made an active campaign in Nebraska.

William J. Bryan is a candidate at large to the St. Louis convention and there is no determined effort to prevent his going. His brother, Charles W. Bryan, of this city, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. Both demand the adoption of the proposed amendment to the constitution prohibiting the manufacture and sale of liquor within the State. Not only have they adopted this for their own platform, but they are insisting that every candidate for State or legislative office on the Democratic ticket must come out squarely for the amendment or forfeit the Bryan support. It is this attitude on the part of the Bryans that has shaken the Democratic party in Nebraska from center to circumference.

While there is undoubtedly a strong movement in Nebraska for prohibition it is also true that there is a strong movement against it. The anti-prohibition movement in the State is as formidable as the personal liberty sentiment, especially in Omaha and the larger cities. About one-half of Nebraska, measured by area, is already "dry," but measured by population, only a small part of the State has been won from the "wets."

The immediate effect of the split over the prohibition issue is seen in communities strongly opposed to prohibition, where Democrats are unwilling to take chances and are said to have registered as Republicans for the primary election in the hope of being able to dictate a candidate of that party not committed to prohibition whom they believe will be able to defeat Charles W. Bryan if he receives the Democratic nomination for governor.

Voters of all parties will have an abundance of candidates from which to select their choice for governor at the primaries. The Democrats whose name will appear on the ballot, in addition to Charles W. Bryan, are W. F. Stoeker, of Omaha and Keith Neville, of North Platte. The Republicans who seek to head the State ticket are William Madgett, of Hastings, Walter A. George, of Omaha, Samuel R. McKelvie, of Lincoln, Abraham L. Sutton, of Omaha, and Clarence J. Miles, of Hastings. The Progressives, Socialists and Prohibitionists will also have candidates for the governorship.

Gilbert M. Hitchcock is expected to receive the renomination for United States senator. His only opponent on the Democratic ticket will be Ignatius J. Dunn, of Omaha. For the Republican senatorial nomination the contestants are former Governor Chester H. Aldrich and John L. Kennedy, of Dundee. Walter O. Henry, of Omaha has filed for the senatorial nomination of the Progressive party.

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast
washes out poisons.

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in stomach or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poison. You waste, gasses and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twing which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become real cranks on the subject shortly.

Keller, chairman; Thomas E. Ruch, surveyor of the port; Stuart G. Gibbons, Thomas G. Smith, secretary of Tammany Hall; Henry M. Oldfogge, formerly representative in congress; William A. THE CLEARFIELD PROGRESS.

Theatrical Gossip From Gotham

New York, April 14.—The dramatic season refuses to succumb to spring fever, even if this is the middle of April. While several of the theatres have closed their regular season and gone over to the movies, others have put on fresh attractions that would be considered important at any period of the year.

The two most notable of the recent new plays here are John Galsworthy's social drama, "Justice," and the new play by Augustus Thomas, called "Rio Grande." "Justice" can hardly be described as a jolly little play, but it is calculated to commiserate itself to the more thoughtful by its earnestness, its universality of theme and its timeliness. It is presented by a highly capable cast headed by the sterling young actor, John Barrymore.

"Rio Grande," the new Augustus Thomas play, recalls to old-time playgoers the immensely successful "Arizona," by the same author. As the title suggests, the drama's locale is the Texas border, and the fact that the scenes pass in and around a United States army post there adds a timely interest. The play unfolds a tragedy growing out of the intimate life of an army post. Nan, the daughter of the Colonel of the regiment, who has been born and reared in the environment of an army post, and her father's successor when he dies, are the principal figures of the drama. The girl marries the man, who is many years her senior, and it is out of this marriage, unhappy at first through the disparity of ages, that the situations of the drama arise.

Sir Herbert Tree has announced the program of the entertainment he will give Easter Monday at the New Amsterdam Theatre as a part of his contribution to the Shakespeare festival. The entertainment will be for the British Red Cross and the price of orchestra seats will be $5 each. The famous English actor-manager will appear in four roles from Shakespearean dramas during the afternoon. He will first be seen as Macbeth in scenes from that tragedy, subjects.

After an interlude he will appear as Falstaff in the inn scene of "Henry IV." He will next impersonate Iago in the scene of "Othello" at Westminister. The garden scene from "Twelfth Night," with Sir Herbert as Malvolio, will complete the program.

Gladys Cooper, a well known actress of the English stage who has never been seen on this side, is to make her American debut here early in the fall. Selwyn & Co. have completed arrangements to present Miss Cooper and Charles Hawtrey here in a comedy, "Please Help Emily," which the two have been appearing for the last eight months at the Royalty Theatre, London.

William A. Brady, who has been interested in the moving picture industry for a year or more, has now assumed control over the productions of three of the leading film corporations. In the larger field afforded by his new connections Mr. Brady contemplates making some big pictures that will run as long as twelve reels. "Romeo and Juliet," "Faust," the novel of Sir Walter Scott, of Dumas, Shakespearean dramas during the afternoon. He will first be seen as Macbeth in scenes from that tragedy, subjects.

Norma Talmadge is rehearsing in a new film play, with a "Jimmy Valentine" theme. The story is laid mostly in the underworld. Miss Talmadge will be the only girl in the play. The other two big parts will be played by Ralph Lewis and Eugene Palette, the latter well known for his slum characterizations.

Having concluded his performance as star of the spectacular Aztec romance, William S. Hart has begun work on a new picture play, the story of which was written by M. Katterjohn. It is a feud story, the scenes of which are laid in the mountains of Kentucky. Hart has the role of a young clergyman who succeeds in bringing hostilities to an end. Considerable gun play and other sensations have been provided by M. Katterjohn.

SUFFRAGE DAY DAY TO BE MADE BRIGHT WITH FLORAL TOKENS

Women to Gather Spring Flowers and Leave Them on Doorsteps of Tenement Tots, Friends and Neighbors

FESTAL CUSTOM REVIVED

If there is a bunch of blossoms on your doorstep May 1, do not suspect a visit from the Roman goddess Maia, worshipped in other days as the source and cause of fertility. Why? Because the visitors will have been a flower-laden suffragist, and she will be legion throughout the State that day.

In brief, it was recently suggested that instead of holding meetings for the Cause this year as in others, the battle for the ballot be halted, for the nonce, to give a cheer to as many as possible by gathering May flowers and distributing them, anonymously, to neighbors, friends and others. Following endorsement by county chairmen of the State, the plan was adopted enthusiastically.

Accordingly, the big cities, on the doorsteps of those who seldom if ever have flowers, there will be deposited fragrant bunches of blossoms. Weary little tots and maids, who do not know that sunshine elsewhere becomes transformed into color of spring blossoms and their fragrance wafts the clusters of sweetly smiling blossoms laid on their doorsteps.

In Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and the larger towns there will be tours into the country for flowers of the fields and woods. Others will be contributed or purchased. Somehow, somewhere, the blossoms will be gathered and speedy trips will be made to the homes where they will be appreciated most.

In smaller towns, where the country is nearby, practically all the flowers will be gathered by the suffragists personally and clustered with ferns and early leafy branches. Maying parties, unfortunately, all will range the woods from the early dawn until their harvest is satisfactory. Then what was gathered will be tied in clusters ready for distribution.

Those who cannot join others will be asked to have little distributions of their own among their neighbors so as many as possible may have a bunch of flowers with which to remember the suffragist's May Day.

All the gifts, as far as possible, are to be anonymous, and every suffragist is expected, according to instructions issued by the State association, to give someone else at least one flower.

The Boast of Democracy.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, national woman suffrage leader, says: "It is a curious thing that in the cities of Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Harrisburg there is no woman suffrage, and yet in the capital of Pennsylvania there are women sitting in the city council, as there are also in Stockholm and Copenhagen and in many cities in Great Britain. In Dublin women may become members of council, although no woman has yet been a member. All these cities are in kingdoms and kings preside over their governments. Yet our boast is Democracy!"

OFFICE HOLDERS MUM ON POLITICS DURING FIGHT

Important Shift in Harrisburg News-paperson Takes Place.

Harrisburg, April 14.—Very little politics is talked in the State House these days, compared with what is talked outside. The place-holders admittedly are afraid.

The bulk of the office-holders are not in sympathy with the Baumgardner faction. They adhere to the Penrose wing, which put them where they are. But just at present the Penrose influence can't keep them where they are, so they have decided that the course of the war is old owl who said little is the best.

Ordinarily, more politics than anything else is talked in Pennsylvania's Capitol for it is quite de rigueur to damn everything not connected with the Republican party and vice versa. But this is a period of what the hotel of many voters has recently described as "pussy-footing"—about the about the State House.

PASSOVER

Passover, or Passover, Begins on day (Friday, April 17th, and observed seven days by Reform and Orthodox Jews.

It is the first festival of emancipation in the history of civilization. Its commemoration is based on the biblical narrative which tells how the people of Israel achieved in Egypt was to free them from bondage by the hand of Moses.

The Passover festival speaks for the liberty of the home as well as for religious and political liberty. The Jews accordingly assemble in their homes at this festival, and signify it by a solemn service in which the story of the ancient struggle for emancipation is recounted with pleasurable fervor. This Seder, as it is called, is unique in spirit and form. It is earnest and yet happy, and its ritual, through archaic, symbolizes the facts of human experience in all conditions of life. The roasted bone reminiscent of the paschal lamb of the first Passover; the bitter herbs calling to mind the hard labor of the Israelites slaves; the unleavened bread, known as the "bread of affliction," symbolizing the hasty departure from Egypt; the roasted egg, recalling the individual sacrifice which was offered in the Temple; the mixture of grated apple, nuts and wine, suggesting the clay from which bricks were made by the enslaved people and the parsley and salt water, symbolic of growth and the fertilizing freshness of spring, invest the domestic ceremony with a real and forceful meaning. A beautiful and most suggestive part of the service is the Open Door, through which the messianic prophet Elijah enters every home that night, a splendid expression of the great ideal which the prophets of Israel announced will become real some day when men will cease to hate and begin to do justice.

It is customary to remove all leaven out of the household in preparation for the feast. Leaven is the symbol of the world, and refers to those who are unemancipated from the commonplace things. During the feast only matzo and not bread, are eaten. The distinctive spirit of the festival is expressed even in the specific food.

The Haggadah, the order of the domestic service, read on the night when the family gathers about the common table comprises the narrative of the Exodus from Egypt, the account of the oppression which the ancient Israelites endured, and is not without its covert allusions to the pathetic story of Israel in more recent times in the midst of the unkind nations. The Haggadah also includes a special group of psalms (CXIII-CXVIII) and a number of medieval poems.

The Passover is the most ancient of the Jewish holidays and perhaps the most ancient of all holidays in the history of religion, and no holiday is so near to the truth of human life as this.

The favorite book for reading during the Passover Week is the "Song of Songs." It is the most classical song of love in canonized literature and is read on this festival because, according to the traditional view, it bespeaks the love between God and Israel.

Plans for Standard Clearing House System. Washington, D. C., April 11.—Plans for a standard clearing-house system to be put into effect throughout the United States will be discussed here tomorrow at a conference of the Federal Reserve board and the governors of the twelve Federal Reserve banks. Out of the conference, it is believed, will develop a system under which checks may be cashed at par in any section of the United States. Another innovation proposed is abolition, as far as members of the reserve system are concerned, of the time-honored custom of country banks of making collection charges varying from ten cents to a dollar generally for cashing checks on out-of-town banks. The custom has existed for more than a hundred years and insures much as a considerable portion of the country banks' revenue is derived from these charges, attempts to abolish it have been stoutly opposed in the past.

LOUIS SHAPIRO

R. J. CUNNINGHAM COMPLETES FIRST YEAR IN OFFICE

Commissioner has Made the Maintenance of Roads Key
Note of Administration

Nearly 5 Million Miles of State Roads
Were Repaired During 1915—Patent System in Maintenance Work
Was Introduced.

Harrisburg, April 13.—Today completes the first year in office of State Highway Commissioner Robert J.
Cunningham. He was commissioned April 11, 1915, to succeed E. M. Biglow.

The Biglow administration had been a strong force before the people at the elections of 1913 and 1914, and when he was succeeded by Cunningham numerous changes in the work of the department occurred.

Commissioner Cunningham made maintenance of roads the keynote. He found prospective appropriations would be insufficient for construction work. This governor had committed the department to a policy of maintenance.

During 1915, 5,824,45 miles of earth
roads in the state highway system were scraped, dragged, crowned and generally placed in passable condition
by the maintenance forces. The gravel, dirt and shale roads maintained and kept in repair totaled 557,75 miles. The shale roads responded readily to a surface treatment of asphaltic oil which made an excellent surface and withstood action of the elements fairly satisfactorily. On the stone surfaced roads 436,120 miles were maintained and in each instance where resurfacing treatment was applied it was protected by a surface application of asphaltic oil over which stone or gravel chips were spread and rolled.

One of the most important innovations introduced during the year
was the establishment of the patrol system in maintenance work. Chief Engineer Unken, who introduced this system into Maryland while he was there employed as Maintenance Engineer, says it has worked well in Pennsylvania. The duties of the patrolmen are to give immediate first aid to injured highways. They are supposed to clean out ditches and strapped-up drains, remove obstructions to travel, repair defective guard rails and remedy slips and slides and the action of washouts. The patrolmen gave particular attention to highways of the higher types of semi-permanent character which require vigilance to prevent deterioration.
These roads include the asphaltic macadam, asphaltic concrete, brick pavement, and concrete and reinforced concrete highways. During the season of 1915 the maintenance division improved 1880,53 miles of these grades of highways and the patrolmen have been kept on them throughout the winter season, when, of course, the most of their work comprises the removal of snow and the repairs of damage done by the elements.

What Makes So Many Families Like Golden Sun?

Some like it for its flavor, some for its uniformity, some for the absence of the bitter taste sometimes found in coffee—and everybody likes its popular price.

All of these merits will undoubtedly appeal to you. But there's a bare possibility that Golden Sun Coffee will satisfy you no more than the one you now drink. If you are fully satisfied, don't change; if you are not, try one pound of Golden Sun Coffee.

No one coffee can suit all tastes, but nine families in ten who try it prefer this Golden Sun Coffee—the chances are that you will, too. But you can't tell till you try it. Golden Sun Coffee is steel cut by the Golden Sun process. Ask your grocer for it.

SUSSEX CASE AROUSES
GREAT INTEREST IN ENGLAND

Masses Keyed up by Announcement
That Germans Sunk Boat

London, April 13.—(By United Press)—Interest in the Sussex case embraced everything in Great Britain
today. While officials analyzed carefully the German note to the American state department, the masses were keyed up by the announcement that the French government not only had convincing documentary evidence that the Sussex was sunk by a German submarine but that it has the names of the submarine captain and the crew. These facts were learned from the officers and crew of a submarine captured in the channel
on April 5th.

It was guessed here that the submarine captured and the undersize boat which sunk the Sussex may have been identical. The German reply to the American note was interpreted as unqualified admission that the Germans sunk the Sussex.

The position of the boat, the kind,
the description of the officers of the torpedo craft and other facts presented in the German note tallied exactly with details already obtained it was pointed out. With the exception that the Sussex was not physically quite correct in detail. This it was held is easily accounted for by the fact that the U-boat was submerged
and the submarine commander probably could not get the exact details from his survey through the peris-
cope.

MORGANTHAU ASKS TO BE

so until he has an expression from the President. He is planning to return to Constantinople between May 1st and 6th.

President Announces Orders to Expedition Will Not be Changed

Respectful Consideration Will be Given To Carranza Note--Counsul Will Discuss Situation with Carranza

HUNT FOR VILLA WILL BE CONTINUED

Washington, April 14. (By United Press.)—There will be no immediate change of orders to the American punitive expedition in Mexico. The hunt for Villa will continue for the present at least. That was the decision reached by the President's cabinet in session today.

Respectful attention will be paid to the Carranza note. Every consideration will be given it. Meantime consul Rodgers in Mexico City will treat with Carranza toward reaching an amicable settlement of the suggestion but no reply will be made now by this government, and pending the receipt of word from Rodgers at least, it was indicated the United States troops will continue their efforts to kill or capture the bandit leader and exterminate his band.

The decision of the cabinet caused some surprise as it came right on the heels of a statement by Senator Stone, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, that intervention or withdrawal were the only courses open to this country in Mexico—and that in his belief—withdrawal was the better of the two. He made that statement following a call on Secretary Lansing at the state department.

After the meeting it was announced that President Wilson was preparing a statement on Mexico. Congress met today with a dozen sizzling resolutions on the Mexican situation drafted, but they hesitated as to whether this is the proper time to present them. All demanded prompt action. The department made efforts to curb congressional action or debate.

Senator Smith, Arizona Democrat, also called at the state department. When he left he indicated that he is not at all in sympathy with the proposal to withdraw American troops from Mexico. He would support no program of withdrawal until Villa is captured and the safety of the southern border secured. If the President should decide to withdraw from Mexico, leaders said there is not the slightest doubt that he will meet with opposition in which the Democrats will join with the Republicans.

The cabinet decision to gather all facts before attempting final action was unanimous. No light on the stand taken by the President himself at the conference was obtainable. Orders issued last night to General Funston giving him free rein in protecting Pershing's men and in meeting the general situation arising from the Carranza fight will stand.

Bill Introduced Not to Withdraw
Representative McLemore of Texas today introduced a resolution in the house providing that the American forces now in Mexico must not be withdrawn until Villa has been killed, captured or forced into exile. His resolution provides that the President be directed if it is deemed necessary to send reinforcements to Mexico, to issue a call for volunteers or to accept any regiments of militia which may offer their services to be used in pursuing Villa regardless of protest from any person or powers. In the preamble McLemore says that Carranza has put obstacles in the way of the United States army and has thereby impeded the capture of Villa.

Columbus, New Mexico, April 14.—(By United Press.)—The Carranza withdrawal request has halted the forward drive of the American expedition in Mexico according to information here today. The smaller column and detachment on Villa's trail are concentrating as rapidly as possible. Until definite action is taken on Carranza's request the lines of communication or supply will not be extended further, it was learned here.

In Critical Condition
El Paso, April 14.—United States troops around Parral are facing a critical situation according to reports received here today. A Villista band defeated by American troops at Troy last Monday retreated toward Parral. An official report stated, leaving United States cavalry in pursuit, but the sentiment against them was found to be at a high pitch in Parral.

Following the clash between the Mexicans and the American detachment on Wednesday, other bandit forces defeated the Carranza garrison at Tular De Cochinos driving them back on Parral. If the Carranza garrison in Parral joins the Villistas against the American forces the situation would become critical it was admitted here.

Deny Troopers Attacked
The Mexican account posted at Juarez today said the citizens of Parral attacked the United States troops who entered the city by mistake.

"It was the citizens not the soldiers who opposed the entry of the American troops into Parral and who fired on the United States soldiers," Garcia declared. Other reports, however, stated that the officers of the Parral garrison could not control their men and that the soldiers took part in the fight.

The fact that the mayor of Parral is Jose de la Luz Herrera is considered significant. He is the father of General Louis Herrera who, despite his cordial meeting with General Pershing at the front a few days ago, is still regarded as the leader of anti-American elements of the Carranza garrison.

Villa Spy Arrested
A Villa spy riding a United States cavalry horse and wearing a United States army uniform was arrested near American field headquarters close to Maniquipa, according to advices received here today.

Zapata Executes Leader.
Galveston, Texas, April 14. (By United Press.)—General Zapata has executed Manuel Palafox, formerly one of his chief lieutenants, and ten other former Zapata leaders, according to reports said to be official received here today by Mexican Consul General Francisco Pacheco charged that a plot to murder General Gonzales at the recent conference arranged under an amnesty agreement was entered into. Failure of the plot was regarded to be the reason for the execution.

Washington, April 14.—(By United Press.)—Estimates of the number of Mexicans killed at Parral ranged from a few to one hundred. Consular reports to the state department declared today. The best information obtainable was that only one American was killed. The consular reports came yesterday from El Paso and were based on statements of travellers.

These travellers related that the Americans had clashed with the Mexican inhabitants and then withdrew outside the city. They stated that the battle was not renewed at night as the Carranza Embassy advices yesterday afternoon stated.

General Funston notified the department this afternoon he had no report from General Pershing regarding the Carranza battle. It was Secretary Baker's understanding that there would be no objection to the passage of troops through towns on the line of march if they had not been ordered to "occupy" any town.

The statement was made on receipt of word from Mexico City that reports there were that the Americans were fired on when they attempted to march through the city against the articles of agreement between this government and Carranza.

Report of Battle Reaches Border
Mexico City, April 14.—Mild excitement was caused today by publication for the first time of news of the clash between American troops and Mexican civilians at Parral. There were no demonstrations, however. News of the battle spread through the city last night after General Gonzalez had issued a manifesto warning the inhabitants against any hostile demonstration against the Americans.

SHARP NOTE WILL BE SENT GERMANY WITHIN 24 HOURS

Jeopardizing American Life Will Mean Severance of Diplomatic Relations

Note Will Call for Punishment of Offending Submarine Commanders and Remove Possibility of Repetition of Such Acts

Washington, April 14.—(By United Press.)—President Wilson's final word on the submarine controversy with Germany has been embodied in the note to Germany states that another disaster resulting from a U-boat attack in which an American life is jeopardized will mean the severance of diplomatic relations. No hint of the exact contents came from the White House. It was stated that this note will go forward within 24 to 48 hours.

The communication is sharp and concise and will permit no dickering and extended negotiations. It is reported that it will call for not only punishment of the offending submarine commanders but for assurance that Germany has changed her policy in such a manner as to remove all possibility of a repetition of the circumstances which have brought the two countries near a diplomatic break.

Definite Plan Decided Upon

Washington April 14.—(By United Press.)—President Wilson has determined on the course of action to be taken by the government toward Germany in the submarine issue. Announcement will be made in about from 12 to 14 hours. This was the statement of a high government official just before the cabinet went into session today. He would not comment on what form this government's action would take at this time.

It is certain the President will demand an immediate showdown without equivocation on the submarine issue. He is expected to determine the United States shall have satisfaction even at the cost of severance of diplomatic relations. It was stated that the government has all the facts necessary to set forth its position and that there will be no further delay.

American Survivor Returns

New York, April 14.—(By United Press.)—Edwin H. Huxley, the first American survivor of the Sussex, reached New York, was a passenger of the St. Paul reaching here today. Huxley, a rubber merchant with offices at 890 Broadway, said the German steamer that another ship, the Sussex, was torpedoed at about the same time and in the same way seemed ridiculous to him. "We were afloat for nine hours and saw no other vessel during that time," said Huxley. "It seems certain that had another steamer been torpedoed near by we would have heard from her by wireless." Huxley saw no submarine or torpedo.

SMALL INVESTMENT WILL LAND NEW INDUSTRY HERE

Chamber of Commerce in Touch With Chemical Concern Seeking Location

The chamber of commerce is in touch with a responsible chemical manufacturer who wants to establish a small branch factory in Clearfield. The proposition is a good straight-forward one and would make a nice business for some responsible party who is willing to invest a few hundred dollars. Information concerning the proposition can be had by parties, who think that they might be interested, calling at the office of the chamber of commerce.

OFFICIALS FAIL TO FIND TRACE OF MISSING BOY

William Betts Supposed to Have Gone to Philadelphia to Attend Stamp Auction

Mileage Book Used By Youth Traced To Philadelphia Station—New York Will Be Searched in Attempt To Locate Him.

No trace of William Betts, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Betts, of Old Town Road, who left home Tuesday, has been found yet by officials of Philadelphia and New York, who are hunting for the boy. It is thought he went to Philadelphia but all efforts on the part of officials there have failed. Mr. Betts and Mr. Hartwick left last evening for Philadelphia and have made a thorough search of the city in an effort to locate the boy or find some trace of him.

It has been learned the boy left without taking any clothing and had but eight or nine dollars besides a mileage book containing passage for a little over 250 miles. He carried a bag containing a collection of stamps valued at about twelve dollars. William is a very enthusiastic stamp collector and it is thought he has gone to Philadelphia or New York to attend a stamp auction for the purpose of exchanging more stamps.

Officials of the railroad informed local authorities that they have traced the mileage book, which the boy took, to the Philadelphia station. There are some suspicions that the missing youth has met with foul play, or has sold the book to avoid being traced by the officials. An effort is being made to locate the conductor of the train between Tyrone and Philadelphia, which the boy is supposed to have taken. It is thought that when the conductor is located, he will be able to inform the searching parties whether or not William was on the train, because the boy stamps his bulky and travelling alone would be sure to attract attention.

At three thirty this afternoon, Betts, father of the boy, phoned relatives here that no trace had been found but that he will go to New York this afternoon and make a search there. Mr. Betts has never interviewed the conductor and is that reason does not know who is the mileage book through to Broad street station from Tyrone.

IN MEMORY OF TITANIC VICTIMS.

New York, April 14.—Extraordinary services were held in New York today in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Isidor Straus and others who perished in the disaster four years ago. The White Star liner, Titanic, the largest ship afloat, was sunk by a collision with an iceberg, late on the night of April 14, 1912, when about 800 miles from shore off the great Newfoundland Banks. The disaster occurred on the maiden voyage of the ship from Southampton to New York. Some 1,500 persons were drowned, and 703 saved by life boats.

LOCAL BASEBALL MEN WILL HOLD MEETING TONIGHT

Prospects for Professional Team Here This Season Will Be Discussed

Meeting is Held for Purpose of Laying Plans for a Permanent Organization to Promote Sport.

There will be a meeting of the local baseball enthusiasts this evening in the Y. M. C. A. for the purpose of discussing the baseball prospects for Clearfield this summer. Several young business men interested in the sport have called the meeting and request that all baseball men of the town who want a professional team to represent Clearfield be present.

This is the first step toward the organization of a team for this town and it is expected a large number of fans will be present. During the past two years the residents here have not displayed much interest in baseball. An effort will be made to secure several out-of-town players to add to the list of local boys who are star performers on the diamond in an endeavor to have an extra fast team as representative of Clearfield, so as to receive the support of a larger number of people.

At the meeting this evening the prospects for a team will be discussed and plans laid for a permanent organization to promote the sport. The raising of funds for the maintenance of a professional team here is the hardest problem which will have to be solved. The last two seasons proved very costly to several of the supporters of the teams but it is hoped that more interest will be taken in the sport this year so as to leave a surplus deficit to be made up by contributions.

All interested in a professional team are urged to be present this evening.

A young employee of the company was arrested, this morning charged with being the thief out it is not known whether it will be possible to convict the man for the crime on account of lack of evidence.

Since the loss of last season every club on the circuit has added new material with a view to strengthening its lineup and increasing its batting average. The appearance of the new line-up appears optimistic over the chances of ending the pennant. The season's schedule provides that each club shall play 140 games, half on the home grounds and half abroad and that each team shall meet every other team twenty times. The closing day will be September 9.

"DRESS UP."

As an expression of National Prosperity: "Dress Up!"

This is the week for it. The stores for men and women have been at great pains to put their stores in order for the Easter season.

Every shop is filled to the doors with the things you will need for the Easter "Dress Up," and it is not necessary to remind you that the best time to buy is early.

In practically every community in the United States this idea of celebrating the National prosperity is being carried out during this month. Millions are being spent for new raiment, all of which goes into the mill-stream of dollars to increase the good times we all are enjoying.

There is also the lure of the season itself. Always Easter time has been the signal for new things to wear, and the Easter parade in Clearfield is not less important than the famous Fifth Avenue out-turning which holds the great metropolis in its spell.

Dress Up this week in new things.

WHERE THE GOVERNOR LOSES.

The spectacle of a decent man being worsted in politics by a gang of professionals is a pathetic one. The thing arouses the same indignation in honest men as would the sight of an untrained man being unmercifully beaten by a professional prize fighter. In that comparison lies the odds against which the governor is waging war against Penrose and his organization. Brumbaugh is a scholarly man, a deep thinker, and at heart no doubt as honest as a vast majority of Pennsylvanians believe him to be. But he is an amateur at the game of politics, hopelessly outclassed and outpointed at every turn when he threatens the safety of the Penrose machine, which has made a profession of politics.

It is unfortunate in the extreme that the governor, seeking to effect a Republican solidarity in the state, by wrecking Penrose, has put into motion against himself the resourcefulness of the machine which he seeks to weaken or destroy. He is bucking a game which is as coldly scientific as the measurement of the stars. Scruples have never stood in the way of the professional politician. Defensive or offensive, to him the end always justifies the means, and it is doubtful if our chief executive will emerge from the present struggle without further smirching.

STUNG BY TWO MEXICAN ADDERS.

Mr. Wilson continues to be the victim of his own credulity. It is not so many months ago that the Villa junta at Washington was cheek by jowl with the administration, the official intercourse between the bandit and the United States government lacking only the formal trappings of ambassadorial dignity. Villa was looked upon in official circles as the man who finally would emerge on top of the heap, and every aid was given him in the acquisition of arms and ammunition to make war upon "First Chief" Carranza. The President gave his approval to the semi-official procedure, and General Pershing, now on Villa's trail, and General Scott, chief of staff of the army, are among those who met Villa and treated with him as the military chief of Northern Mexico.

During this period of Villa ascendancy the Carranza agent in Washington was overshadowed, but with such suddenness as to surprise even the closest followers of the Mexican muddle, the scenes were shifted and the stage set for recognition of the de facto Carranza government. That accomplished the border was closed to Villa, and everything possible was done to prevent further shipments of arms from reaching him.

Now Villa is a fugitive, hotly pursued by American troops in Mexican territory. Carranza objects to the procedure, although he gave tacit consent to the expedition by exacting from this government the privilege of invasion of its borders in similar pursuits, and demands the withdrawal of the American expedition.

The sentiment of this country will not countenance the abandonment of the Villa chase until the Columbus assassin is killed or captured. If it leads to war with Mexico, which everyone will deplore, let it lead there before adding another to the long list of humiliations the American people have suffered because Mr. Wilson believes peace at any price is a better vote getter than war.

Fashion Hints By Margaret Mason

BY MARGARET MASON
 (Written for the United Press)
 "Alack, alack!"
 "I see you're back."
 The wretched husband cried:
 "Again I will be on the rack."
 "I will take profanity and knock
 'To fasten up my bride."

New York, April 14.—On the flower that bloom in the spring time and the dresses that look up the neck are making a simultaneous debut.

Steadily and indistinctly looks and snaps and buttons are sneaking to the rear and in consequence the fingers of all poor Benedicts are due to turn to thumbs for the summer months and bear the brunt of many a pinch and scratch from an obstreperous hook or an obstinate button.

Although all their work is done behind your back there is nothing reticent or retiring about the buttons used to hold your apparel together in the rear. In fact quite a feature is made of a necessity, and the buttons, though generally small, are of ornate shapes, designs and colorings. Quaint enameled in bring hand plaids or wee little nosegays of flowers, sapphire and hexagon and oval shapes and other smart ones covered in the material of which the dress is made or in which it is trimmed.

Crochet buttons also are popular. Even if all the brass buttons have gone to the front it appears there are still divers and sundry other sorts to go to the rear.

With the full skirts and tight bodies and bell sleeves of the moment the back fastening really fits into the general scheme of things most effectively, and, while in some instances frocks may make a feature of buttoning straight down the front, you will find the very newest and smartest wrinkle is to do your buttoning up behind—or let George do it.

You must look to your feet this summer as assiduously as you have in the winter, for others surely will look there and, looking once it is up to you whether they will care to look again.

The short full skirt, hinting of hoops and ermine, are first aids to a generous display of silken hose and shoes of kid and a smartness.

All black stockings will be glimpsed but rarely but black with white will be on many a well turned limb and will occasion many a well turned head.

Black and white stripes running around for those as can wear 'em and running up and down for those as can't are very much in the running and range from pin-stripes to inch wide bands.

White hose embroidered in black up the instep or the sides of the ankle are good and all delicate tints of flesh, grey, maize and baby blue will be popular.

The white kid shoe, both high and low, is in its heyday and low plain pumps and slippers of softest pear grey kid, beige and all delicate pastel tints to go with the fluffy summer silks and organdies are to be featured on all the best feet.

Black patent kid and black satin slippers will be greatly in demand also, with light colored hosiery because of the pronounced Spanish flavor of our present dressing.

Take nine inches off a skirt and then add two cuts (not cube) feet and the answer to this sartorial sum is SOME girl.

COMMISSIONER WISSER AIDED SAYS DAUGHTER

Dravosburg Official Relieved of Distressing Cataract Afflictions

Mrs. Wm. Kerfoot recently made the following statement regarding the benefits her father, Henry W. Kerfoot, commissioner of Dravosburg, Pa., received from Tanlac the master medicine.

"Yes," said Mrs. Kerfoot, "I came to give this statement about my father's experience with Tanlac. He was troubled terribly with cataract of the head and stomach and he suffered for it for years. He always complained in the morning of a heaviness of his head and said he didn't feel like he had enough energy to commence his day's work. He seldom ever ate breakfast, as he suffered from a sickening sensation which he attributed to the accumulations of catarrhal mucus in his throat.

"He also complained of headaches, and coughed continually throughout some of the forenoons. His sleep became impaired and he had been forced to get out of bed in order to breathe comfortably. These choking sensations troubled him some during the day time, too.

"I read about Tanlac, and I just determined he should try it at my expense. I bought the medicine and asked him to take it. At first, he was a bit skeptical as he had failed to obtain relief through other medicine he had taken. I persuaded him to try Tanlac, though, and he is now very glad that he took my advice.

"The accumulations in his throat have disappeared, his appetite for breakfast has improved, and he is generally so much better. He said the other day that he is feeling like a new man, and I am so glad that the medicine has helped him. I believe that in a very short time, if he continues to take Tanlac his cataract will be permanently cured. I gladly recommend this wonderful remedy on his behalf."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine that helped Commissioner Wissar and thousands of others, is sold here by Woodward & McPherson where it can now be had.

WEDNESDAY PRIMARY WILL CLOSE HOT POLITICAL FIGHT

Lively Interest Being Taken In
Nominations for State
Ticket in Iowa

Cummins, Estabrook and Ford Only
Candidates for Republican Delegates — Presidential Primary
Creates Little Interest.

Lincoln, Neb., April 13.—The state wide primaries in Nebraska next Tuesday will culminate one of the fiercest political battles in the history of this State. On that day the voters of the several parties will express their choice for President and Vice President, choose delegates at large and district delegates to the national conventions and vote for candidates for United States senator, six representatives in Congress, members of the judiciary and a complete State ticket, from governor down to regent of the State university.

The presidential preference feature of the primaries has aroused little enthusiasm among the Nebraska voters. But what is lacking in interest in this feature is more than made up in the lively fight for nominations on the State ticket. The liveliest fight is in the Democratic ranks and centers around the issue of prohibition, with William J. Bryan as the dominant leader of the "dry" element.

A short time ago there were the names of nearly a dozen presidential possibilities on file with the Nebraska authorities. But Roosevelt, Burton, Hughes and others withdrew, leaving only Cummins, Estabrook and Ford on the Republican ticket, Woodrow Wilson on the Democratic ticket, Eugene N. Foss and Ira Landrith on the Prohibition ticket, and Robert G. Ross, of Lexington, Neb., on all lists.

Democratically speaking, there is none but Wilson. Nebraska Democrats are for him and the Democratic delegation to St. Louis will vote for his renomination. Cummins is expected to have the Republican delegation. He is the candidate of a neighboring State and is well known and well liked in Nebraska. Furthermore, he is the only one of the Republican aspirants who has made an active campaign in Nebraska.

William J. Bryan is a candidate at large to the St. Louis convention and there is no determined effort to prevent his going. His brother, Charles W. Bryan, of this city, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. Both demand the adoption of the proposed amendment to the constitution prohibiting the manufacture and sale of liquor within the State. Not only have they adopted this for their own platform, but they are insisting that every candidate for State or legislative office on the Democratic ticket must come out squarely for the amendment or forfeit the Bryan support. It is this attitude on the part of the Bryans that has shaken the Democratic party in Nebraska from center to circumference.

While there is undoubtedly a strong movement in Nebraska for prohibition it is also true that there is a strong movement against it. The anti-prohibition movement in the State is as formidable as the personal liberty sentiment, especially in Omaha and the larger cities. About one-half of Nebraska, measured by area, is already "dry," but measured by population, only a small part of the State has been won from the "wets."

The immediate effect of the split over the prohibition issue is seen in communities strongly opposed to prohibition, where Democrats are unwilling to take chances and are said to have registered as Republicans for the primary election in the hope of being able to dictate a candidate of that party not committed to prohibition whom they believe will be able to defeat Charles W. Bryan if he receives the Democratic nomination for governor.

Voters of all parties will have an abundance of candidates from which to select their choice for governor at the primaries. The Democrats whose name will appear on the ballot, in addition to Charles W. Bryan, are W. F. Stoeker, of Omaha and Keith Neville, of North Platte. The Republicans who seek to head the State ticket are William Madgett, of Hastings, Walter A. George, of Omaha, Samuel R. McKelvie, of Lincoln, Abraham L. Sutton, of Omaha, and Clarence J. Miles, of Hastings. The Progressives, Socialists and Prohibitionists will also have candidates for the governorship.

Gilbert M. Hitchcock is expected to receive the renomination for United States senator. His only opponent on the Democratic ticket will be Ignatius J. Dunn, of Omaha. For the Republican senatorial nomination the contestants are former Governor Chester H. Aldrich and John L. Kennedy, of Dundee. Walter O. Henry, of Omaha has filed for the senatorial nomination of the Progressive party.

Indian with Powerplus Motor

Here's a stock motor that does 70 miles an hour; that's gone out and showed its pedigree by hanging world's records so high and so consistently that they can't be touched by anything else of its kind—unless another stock Powerplus goes after 'em.

The fellow who rides an Indian Powerplus leads—never has to take the dust of anything that runs on two wheels. He rides the BEST motorcycle—and proves it!

Then there's the man who wants plenty of speed, power and huskiness but not too much of either; who wants simplicity; who wants a lightweight motorcycle—not a motor-bicycle—at a moderate price. For him—the

And finally, the man who wants a bicycle—a trim little brother of the Big Twin. For him—the

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast
washes out poisons.

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in stomach or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poison. Waste, gasses and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twing which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become real cranks on the subject shortly.

THE CLEARFIELD PROGRESS.

Theatrical Gossip From Gotham

New York, April 14.—The dramatic season refuses to succumb to spring fever, even if this is the middle of April. While several of the theatres have closed their regular season and gone over to the movies, others have put on fresh attractions that would be considered important at any period of the year.

The two most notable of the recent new plays here are John Galsworthy's social drama, "Justice," and the new play by Augustus Thomas, called "Rio Grande." "Justice" can hardly be described as a jolly little play, but it is calculated to commiserate itself to the more thoughtful by its earnestness, its universality of theme and its timeliness. It is presented by a highly capable cast headed by the sterling young actor, John Barrymore.

"Rio Grande," the new Augustus Thomas play, recalls to old-time playgoers the immensely successful "Arizona," by the same author. As the title suggests, the drama's locale is the Texas border, and the fact that the scenes pass in and around a United States army post there adds a timely interest. The play unfolds a tragedy growing out of the intimate life of an army post. Nan, the daughter of the Colonel of the regiment, who has been born and reared in the environment of an army post, and her father's successor when he dies, are the principal figures of the drama. The girl marries the man, who is many years her senior, and it is out of this marriage, unhappy at first through the disparity of ages, that the situations of the drama arise.

Sir Herbert Tree has announced the program of the entertainment he will give Easter Monday at the New Amsterdam Theatre as a part of his contribution to the Shakespeare festival. The entertainment will be for the British Red Cross and the price of orchestra seats will be $5 each. The famous English actor-manager will appear in four roles from Shakespearean dramas during the afternoon. He will first be seen as Macbeth in scenes from that tragedy, subjects.

After an interlude he will appear as Falstaff in the inn scene of "Henry IV." He will next impersonate Iago in the scene of "Othello" at Westminister. The garden scene from "Twelfth Night," with Sir Herbert as Malvolio, will complete the program.

Gladys Cooper, a well known actress of the English stage who has never been seen on this side, is to make her American debut here early in the fall. Selwyn & Co. have completed arrangements to present Miss Cooper and Charles Hawtrey here in a comedy, "Please Help Emily," which the two have been appearing for the last eight months at the Royalty Theatre, London.

William A. Brady, who has been interested in the moving picture industry for a year or more, has now assumed control over the productions of three of the leading film corporations. In the larger field afforded by his new connections Mr. Brady contemplates making some big pictures that will run as long as twelve reels. "Romeo and Juliet," "Faust," the novel of Sir Walter Scott, of Dumas, Shakespearean dramas during the afternoon. He will first be seen as Macbeth in scenes from that tragedy, subjects.

Norma Talmadge is rehearsing in a new film play, with a "Jimmy Valentine" theme. The story is laid mostly in the underworld. Miss Talmadge will be the only girl in the play. The other two big parts will be played by Ralph Lewis and Eugene Pallette, the latter well known for his slim characterizations.

Having concluded his performance as star of the spectacular Aztec romance, William S. Hart has begun work on a new picture play, the story of which was written by M. Katterjohn. It is a feud story, the scenes of which are laid in the mountains of Kentucky. Hart has the role of a young clergyman who succeeds in bringing hostilities to an end. Considerable gun play and other sensations have been provided by M. Katterjohn.

SUFFRAGE DAY DAY TO BE MADE BRIGHT WITH FLORAL TOKENS

Women to Gather Spring Flowers and Leave Them on Doorsteps of Tenement Tots, Friends and Neighbors

FESTAL CUSTOM REVIVED

If there is a bunch of blossoms on your doorstep May 1, do not suspect a visit from the Roman goddess Maia, worshipped in other days as the source and cause of fertility. Why? Because the visitors will have been a flower-laden suffragist, and she will be legion throughout the State that day.

In brief, it was recently suggested that instead of holding meetings for the Cause this year as in others, the battle for the ballot be halted, for the nonce, to give a cheer to as many as possible by gathering May flowers and distributing them, anonymously, to neighbors, friends and others. Following endorsement by county chairmen of the State, the plan was adopted enthusiastically.

Accordingly, the big cities, on the doorsteps of those who seldom if ever have flowers, there will be deposited fragrant bunches of blossoms. Weary little tots and maids, who do not know that sunshine elsewhere becomes transformed into color of spring blossoms and their fragrance wafts the clusters of sweetly smiling blossoms laid on their doorsteps.

In Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and the larger towns there will be tours into the country for flowers of the fields and woods. Others will be contributed or purchased. Somehow, somewhere, the blossoms will be gathered and speedy trips will be made to the homes where they will be appreciated most.

In smaller towns, where the country is nearby, practically all the flowers will be gathered by the suffragists personally and clustered with ferns and early leafy branches. Maying parties, unfortunately, all will range the woods from the early dawn until their harvest is satisfactory. Then what was gathered will be tied in clusters ready for distribution.

Those who cannot join others will be asked to have little distributions of their own among their neighbors so as many as possible may have a bunch of flowers with which to remember the suffragist's May Day.

All the gifts, as far as possible, are to be anonymous, and every suffragist is expected, according to instructions issued by the State association, to give someone else at least one flower.

The Boast of Democracy.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, national woman suffrage leader, says: "It is a curious thing that in the cities of Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Harrisburg there is no woman suffrage, and yet in the capital of Pennsylvania there are women sitting in the city council, as there are also in Stockholm and Copenhagen and in many cities in Great Britain. In Dublin women may become members of council, although no woman has yet been a member. All these cities are in kingdoms and kings preside over their governments. Yet our boast is Democracy!"

OFFICE HOLDERS MUM ON POLITICS DURING FIGHT

Important Shift in Harrisburg News-paperson Takes Place.

Harrisburg, April 14.—Very little politics is talked in the State House these days, compared with what is talked outside. The place-holders admittedly are afraid.

The bulk of the office-holders are not in sympathy with the Baumgardner faction. They adhere to the Penrose wing, which put them where they are. But just at present the Penrose influence can't keep them where they are, so they have decided that the course of the war is old owl who said little is the best.

Ordinarily, more politics than anything else is talked in Pennsylvania's Capitol for it is quite de rigueur to damn everything not connected with the Republican party and vice versa. But this is a period of what the hotel of many voters has recently described as "pussy-footing"—about the about the State House.

PASSOVER

Passover, or Passover, Begins on day (Friday), April 17th, and observed Seven Days by Reform and Orthodox Jews.

It is the first festival of emancipation in the history of civilization. Its commemoration is based on the biblical narrative which tells how the people of Israel achieved in Egypt was to free them from bondage by the leader Moses.

The Passover festival speaks for the liberty of the home as well as for religious and political liberty. The Jews accordingly assemble in their homes at this festival, and signify it by a solemn service in which the story of the ancient struggle for emancipation is recounted with pleasurable fervor. This Seder, as it is called, is unique in spirit and form. It is earnest and yet happy, and its ritual, through archaic, symbolizes the facts of human experience in all conditions of life. The roasted bone reminiscent of the paschal lamb of the first Passover; the bitter herbs calling to mind the hard labor of the Israelites; the unleavened bread, known as the "bread of affliction," symbolizing the hasty departure from Egypt; the roasted egg, recalling the individual sacrifice which was offered in the Temple; the mixture of grated apple, nuts and wine, suggesting the clay from which bricks were made by the enslaved people and the parsley and salt water, symbolic of growth and the fertilizing freshness of spring, invest the domestic ceremony with a real and forceful meaning. A beautiful and most suggestive part of the service is the Open Door, through which the messianic prophet Elijah enters every home that night, a splendid expression of the great ideal which the prophets of Israel announced will become real some day when men will cease to hate and begin to do justice.

It is customary to remove all leaven out of the household in preparation for the feast. Leaven is the symbol of the world, and refers to those who are unemancipated from the commonplace things. During the feast only matzo and not bread, are eaten. The distinctive spirit of the festival is expressed even in the specific food.

The Haggadah, the order of the domestic service, read on the night when the family gathers about the common table comprises the narrative of the Exodus from Egypt, the account of the oppression which the ancient Israelites endured, and is not without its covert allusions to the pathetic story of Israel in more recent times. The Haggadah also includes a special group of psalms (CXIII-CXVIII) and a number of medieval poems.

The Passover is the most ancient of the Jewish holidays and perhaps the most ancient of all holidays in the history of religion, and no holiday is so near to the truth of human life as this.

The favorite book for reading during the Passover Week is the "Song of Songs." It is the most classical song of love in canonized literature and is read on this festival because, according to the traditional view, it bespeaks the love between God and Israel.

Plans for Standard Clearing House System. Washington, D. C., April 11.—Plans for a standard clearing-house system to be put into effect throughout the United States will be discussed here tomorrow at a conference of the Federal Reserve board and the governors of the twelve Federal Reserve banks. Out of the conference, it is believed, will develop a system under which checks may be cashed at par in any section of the United States. Another innovation proposed is abolition, as far as members of the reserve system are concerned, of the time-honored custom of country banks of making collection charges varying from ten cents to a dollar generally for cashing checks on out-of-town banks. The custom has existed for more than a hundred years and insures much as a considerable portion of the country banks' revenue is derived from these charges, attempts to abolish it have been stoutly opposed in the past.

R. J. CUNNINGHAM COMPLETES FIRST YEAR IN OFFICE

Commissioner has Made the Maintenance of Roads Key
Note of Administration

Nearly 5 Million Miles of State Roads
Were Repaired During 1915—Patent System in Maintenance Work
Was Introduced.

Harrisburg, April 13.—Today completes the first year in office of State
Highway Commissioner Robert J.
Cunningham. He was commissioned April 11, 1915, to succeed E. M. Biglow.

The Biglow administration had been a strong force before the people at the elections of 1913 and 1914, and when he was succeeded by Cunningham numerous changes in the work of the department occurred.

Commissioner Cunningham made maintenance of roads the keynote. He found prospective appropriations
would be insufficient for construction work. This governor had committed the department to a policy of maintenance.

During 1915, 5,824,45 miles of earth
roads in the state highway system
were scraped, dragged, crowned and generally placed in passable condition
by the maintenance forces. The gravel, sand and shale roads maintained and kept in repair totaled 557,75
miles. The shale roads responded readily to a surface treatment of asphaltic oil which made an excellent surface and withstood action of the elements fairly satisfactorily. On the stone surfaced roads 436,120 miles
were maintained and in each instance
where resurfacing treatment was applied it was protected by a surface
application of asphaltic oil over which stone or gravel chips were spread and rolled.

One of the most important innovations introduced during the year
was the establishment of the patrol system in maintenance work. Chief Engineer Ulmer, who introduced this system into Maryland while he was there employed as Maintenance Engineer, says it has worked well in Pennsylvania. The duties of the patrolmen are to give immediate first aid to injured highways. They are supposed to clean out ditches and strapped-up drains, remove obstructions to travel, repair defective guard rails and remedy slips and slides and
the action of washouts. The patrolmen gave particular attention to highways of the higher types of semi-permanent character which require
vigilance to prevent deterioration.
These roads include the asphaltic macadam, asphaltic concrete, brick pavement, and concrete and reinforced concrete highways. During the season of 1915 the maintenance division improved 1880,53 miles of these grades of highways and the patrolmen have been kept on them throughout the winter season, when, of course,
the most of their work comprises the removal of snow and the repairs of damage done by the elements.

SUSSEX CASE AROUSES GREAT INTEREST IN ENGLAND

Masses Keyed up by Announcement
That Germans Sunk Boat

London, April 13.—(By United Press)—Interest in the Sussex case
embraced everything in Great Britain
today. While officials analyzed carefully the German note to the American state department, the masses
were keyed up by the announcement that the French government not only
had convincing documentary evidence that the Sussex was sunk by a German submarine but that it has the names of the submarine captain
and the crew. These facts were learned from the officers and crew of
a submarine captured in the channel
on April 5th.

It was guessed here that the submarine captured and the undersize
boat which sunk the Sussex may have been identical. The German reply to the American note was interpreted as unqualified admission that the Germans sunk the Sussex.

The position of the boat, the kind,
the description of the officers of the torpedo craft and other facts presented in the German note tallied exactly with details already obtained it was pointed out. With the exception that the Sussex was not physically quite correct in detail. This it was held is easily accounted for by the fact that the U-boat was submerged
and the submarine commander probably could not get the exact details
from his survey through the peris-
cope.

"WHO'S THIS GUY COBB, ANYWAY?"

BENNIE KAUFF

TY COBB

This photograph shows the first meeting of Ty Cobb, believed to be the greatest baseball player the game has known, and Bennie Kauff, who says he is going to take that position on the diamond. "Who's this guy Cobb, anyway?" Bennie asked when he was told that Cobb, might not let him become the greatest player. However, the fight will be wholly professional as is proved by the fact that each smiled his sweetest when they were photographed in Texas.
